HOME-GROWN LEMON.

Rev. J. W. Simpson returned home Monday from his pastoral charge at Vanceburg, Ky. He had in his possession a lemon, a home-grown product of Mrs. Samuel Pollitt. The lemon weighed a full pound and was the smallest on the bush, which is several years old. There were still larger ones that are supposed to weigh a pound and a half. Mrs. Pollitt will be remembered as the wife of Mr. Sam Pollitt, the obliging and successful stagedriver from here to Tolulessboro several years ago, as well as principal owner of the line.

FOR SALE, A MAYSICK HOME.

The Bell sisters will offer for sale Feb. 29, their 7-room home at Mayslick. All necessary outbuildings. A very rare opportunity.

A NEAR-FIRE.

Mr. J. H. Randolph, assistant superintendent of the Western-Southern Life Insurance Company, is the owner of a handsome Angora cat. Tuesday morning when he admitted to eat to the sitting room it got too near the gas grate and in an instant the cat's fine bushy tail was afire. The cat made a dash for liberty in the direction of lace window curtains, but Mr. Randolph was too quick for it and smothered the flames with a coat before the fire could be spread. Aside from a bad fright and a singed tail the cat is none the worse for the experience.

UNIQUE WINDOW DISPLAY.

J. L. Finerty's show window on Market street, is one of the most unique we have ever seen in a meat market. A large halibut occupies the center of the window, a row of large dressed frogs, and a border of large fish, all resting upon a bed of ice, form a tempting invitation to come in. Maysville likes frogs, for hardly are they placed on display than they are bought up.

Mr. John Fanslor has returned from Norwood, O., and while gone he attended the Master Painters and House Decorators' Association meeting at Cincinnati. He was present at the big banquet given in connection with the Farmer Sells Corn To a Local Feed Store, and Weighs In 170 Pounds of Rocks.

Several days ago the proprietor of a local feed store was called to the telephone by a farmer about twelve miles distant, supposedly, and asked if he wanted to buy a wagon load of good corn, to which the feed man replied that he did, quoting the market price, and the farmer told him it was his corn and he would bring it in that day.

In about an hour Mr. Farmer drove up with the corn, which surprised Mr. Feedstoreman at the quick time made in getting to Maysville with a big two-horse wagonload of corn over twelve miles of rough roads in an hour.

He was told to drive to a certain scales and have it weighed and come back and get his money.

After getting it weighed and receiving the weight tickets, he drove off the scales and when at a street corner in sight of the man who did the weighing, Mr. Farmer was seen to get off the wagon, take off a horse blanket with something rolled up in it, deposit the something in the gutter, throw the blanket onto the wagon and drive off; all of which excited the curiosity of the scales man, who went to see what was there, and found four big rocks.

Mr. Feedstoreman was notified at the first opportunity, who got the rocks and took them to his store, where he found they weighed 170 pounds.

The local merchant has written the farmer a letter about the matter, and unless he makes good he will be prosecuted.

He says the corn was first-class, but he could not afford to buy rocks at corn prices, as there was no demand for them.

"MUTT AND JEFF"

Will Be Here On Next Monday—A Bety of Beautiful Girls Will Grace the Stage.

Managers Russell, Dye and Watkins of the Washington Opera House, have booked the famous "Mutt & Jeff" show. The company will appear at the opera house on next Monday night in a laughing, rollicking piece entitled "Mutt & Jeff in College."

This particular piece, although using for its locale a college, does not ridicule or exaggerate our private educational institutions. In fact it extols its virtues, but at the same time demonstrates that while there is time for study there is also time for diversion and amusement of the wholesome and ingratiating kind. "Mutt & Jeff" are too well known for further comment. Their exploits have been aired in the columns of our dailies for years and thus far they have not ceased to find favor with the multitudes. Manager Gus Hill has given the present production his particular care and attention, besides a company of thirty capable people, including pretty girls, comedians and artists who can be expected to entertain and who do so to the queen's taste. A number of novelties, features and other original bits will be introduced. The music has been specially composed for the offering and contains fifteen song hits sure to be whistled before the engagement is half over. Heads of colleges and those connected with their various departments, desirous of seeing the play should write to the management. Monday night has been set aside for the occasion and a gala time is expected.

Mr. Feedstoreman was notified at the first opportunity, who got the rocks and took them to his store, where he found they weighed 170 pounds.

The local merchant has written the farmer a letter about the matter, and unless he makes good he will be prosecuted.

He says the corn was first-class, but he could not afford to buy rocks at corn prices, as there was no demand for them.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEET- ING TONIGHT.

It is important that all members of the Chamber of Commerce who do a credit business attend a meeting to be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the Council Chamber; for at this meeting the Credit Rating and Collection Bureau membership will be established. Membership in this bureau does not carry any extra dues, therefore, there is no reason why the business men of Maysville should not get together in a cooperative spirit and form a Credit Rating and Collection Bureau that will secure for them great results. This is an important feature and every business man who does a credit business should not fail to attend this meeting and hear further particulars concerning the good that can be accomplished.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE LEAGUE.

The Mason County Woman's Suffrage League will meet Thursday, February 24, at 2 o'clock at the Public Library. The success of the suffrage cause depends upon the efforts of those who believe in it. Your help is needed. Important business. Please be prompt. ALICE LLYOD, President.

NEVER FRIES DARK

In preparing bacon for your breakfast, it should be noticed that "PARTRIDGE" Bacon, even though done to a turn, will retain its rich, golden color. This is one of the distinctions of "PARTRIDGE" Bacon, in that its very appearance on your breakfast table, crisp, tender, golden brown and piping hot, will arouse and stimulate the most sluggish appetite. So perfect is the cure of the "PARTRIDGE" Bacon, that it can never fry dark. Order a pound today.

THE HOME OF QUALITY CLOTHES

We are pleased to announce to our Friends and the Public at large that having bought our spring stock early, we are in position to sell suits at last year's prices. Since we bought our stock there have been big advances in woolens, which you doubtless know. However, being so fortunate as to secure our Merchandise at the old prices, we are going to give our patrons the benefit of our purchase.

Hanan, Nettleton and Walkover Shoes are but 50c higher than last season's. Our Stetson and Knox Hats as well as our Furnishing Goods (such as shirts, underwear and hosiery) will be sold at last year's prices.

Hunt's Annual Linen Exposition

Judging from some linen prices every merchant did not take timely warning of the rising cost of flax. The demand for linens today is greater than the supply.

Prices have not only gone up but they keep going up. We bought long ago and we have the largest stock of linens today we ever had, even in this house of large linen stocks. We bought at the old prices and we are giving linens to you at prices wholesalers ask us today.

All of Fashion's Favorites in Black Dress Goods

A black dress is always in good taste. You won't tire of it either, as you might of a colored dress. You will find satisfactory choosing here among the many pretty black fabrics newly arrived for spring.

They are shown by clean, searching daylight, but every piece can stand the test. Every black here is a clear honest black, not the black that fades, crooks or turns gray. Serge, gaberdine, poplin, purnella, voile, tamise, crepe. Every fabric fashion favors you will find represented, and at all prices from 50¢ to $2.00 yard.

Do you know that our stock of silk and wool dress goods is larger than that of any TWO stores in Maysville? These are undisputed facts. No one would dare make statements so easily disproved. And we wouldn't if we would. Honest advertising is Hunt advertising.

THE INITIATIVE IN MARRIAGE.

About this time of year the newspapers abound in Leap Year jokes. One would imagine a general epidemic of so-called "popping the question" in the feminine world. Whether anything of the kind exists further than invitations to attend Leap Year dances and other functions may well be questioned.

The old tradition that the initiative in marriage must be taken by the male sex is one of the most striking curiosities of every day custom. It would not be easy to explain it fully. No doubt there are isolated cases where it is boldly ignored without regard to the calendar by women of resolute purpose. But as a whole it is deeply ingrained in the female mind.

In no other department of life's activities is the initiative so closely confined to one side. As between the buyers and sellers of merchandise, it is held to be legitimate for either one to take the first step without prejudice to his position. Also it is equally appropriate for the person who is employed to seek a position, and for the employer to seek some one to fill it.

It is hardly likely that the masculine mind imposed any such law. Women have no doubt instinctively felt that to be attractive they must exhibit a certain coyness. "Familiarity breeds contempt" and "absence makes the heart grow fonder" are two maxims that have deeply impressed the female mind. A woman may be deeply in love but she keenly realizes that she must not hold herself too cheap. She must somehow give the impression that she is elusive and hard to capture if she would stimulate interest.

Of course the old rule is rather technical. A woman has a thousand silent ways of asking the fateful question with her eyes, while the man is lame halting and hesitating. The old tradition may give the man a sense of power, but it is an illusory one.

OUR HOMES AND OUR PEOPLE.

The home life of this community is an indication of the character and makeup of the people who constitute the community.

Of course, you will find exceptions to every rule of life, but it is an indisputable fact that the home life of this town and country side is one of the brightest spots in our existence.

We have been in a majority of the local homes, and in almost every case we have found a spirit of happiness, contentment and thrift prevailing seven days in the week. We have found amicable relations existing between the heads of families; we have found strong indications of filial respect and devotion on the part of children for their parents; we have found a spirit of love and comradeship existing one toward another.

It speaks in volumes for the homes, the people, and the community. It indicates that we have a people who are above the average in intelligence, moving in an atmosphere that elevates instead of destroys.

In the business house and the offices, in the factories and in the shops, we find a consistent desire to be fairminded and just in the commercial affairs of the day. That craving to "skin the other fellow" so prevalent in some communities is happily absent here. Our people are moving steadily and persistently and consistently onward and upward and to better things and to a greater future.

Such is the spirit of this community as we find it in our daily rounds. It is a condition of which we are proud, of which every citizen should be proud.

It is the mirror which reflects the inner life of our homes and our people.

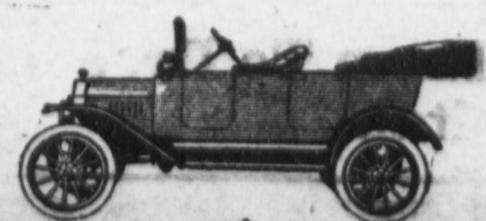

SOME BUSINESS.

According to statistical figures furnished by the Department of Commerce, the United States did some foreign business last December. The total imports into this country were $171,832,505, while the exports were $359,306,492. Of these exports millions of dollars worth of horses and mules were shipped across the water.

These figures look large, but think of it! Most of the material exported included guns and ammunition to be used in killing off men of other nations. When the war ceases there will be some falling off in exports. The men will not be there to use the goods.

A BUSHRANGER AT BAY.

And he peered rather pathetically through his glass.

"Didn't the same apply to the magazine you were reading?"

"No; I have always read the papers when I could," said Stingaree, and suddenly he was smiling. "That's one reason why I make a specialty of sticking up the mail," he explained.

Mr. Kentish was not to be drawn into a second deliverance on the bushranging career. "Is it a good number?" he asked, nodding toward the magazine.

The bushranger picked it up.

"Good enough for me."

"What date?"

"Ninth of December."

"Nearly three months ago. I was in London then," remarked Kentish in a reflective tone.

"Really?" cried Stingaree, under his breath. His voice was as soft as the other's, but there was suppressed interest in his manner. His dark eyes were only less alight than the red cigar that he took from his teeth as he spoke. And he held it like a connoisseur, between finger and thumb, for all his ruined palate.

"I was," repeated Kentish. "I didn't sail till the middle of the month."

"To think you were in town till nearly Christmas!" and Stingaree gazed enviously. "It must be hard to realize," he added in some haste.

"Other things," replied Kentish, "are harder."

"I gather from a cartoon that the new law courts are in use at last."

"I was at the opening."

"Then you may have seen this opera that I have been reading about?"

Kentish asked what it was, although he knew.

"Lolanth."

"Rather. I was there the first night."

"The deuce you were!" cried Stingaree, and for the next quarter of an hour this armed scoundrel, the terror of a district as large as England and Wales, talked of nothing else to the man whom he was about to blind to a tree. Was the new opera equal to its predecessors? Which were the best numbers? Did Punch do it justice, or was there some jealousy in that rival brother?

Unfortunately, Guy Kentish had no ear for music, but he made a clear report of the plot, could repeat some of the lord chancellor's quips, and was in decided disagreement with the captions banter from which he was given more than one extract. And in default of one of the new arias Stingaree rounded off the subject by dropping once more into—

For he might have been a Rooshian, A French or Turk or Prooslian
Or perhaps I-tal-i-an,
Or perhaps I-tal-i-an!
But in spite of all temptations
To belong to other nations
He remains an Englishman!

"I understand that might be said of both of us," remarked Kentish, looking the outlaw boldly in the eyes. "But from all accounts I should have thought you were out here before the days of Gilbert and Sullivan."

"So I was," replied Stingaree without frown or hesitation. "But you may also have heard that I am fond of music—ay I can get. My only opportunities, as a rule," the bushranger continued, smiling mischievously at his cigar, "occur on the stations I have occasion to visit from time to time. On one a good lady played and sang 'Finne-faire' and 'The Pirates of Penzance' to me from dewy eve to dawn. I'm bound to say I sang some of it at sight myself, and I flatter myself it helped to pass an embarrassing night rather pleasantly for all concerned. We had all hands on the place for our audience, and when I left I was formally presented with both scores, for I had simply called for horses, and horses were all I took. Only the other day I had the luck to confiscate a musical box which plays selections from 'The Pirates.' I ought to have had it with me in my swag."

So affable and even charming was the quiet voice, so evident the appreciation of the last inch of the cigar which had thawed a frozen palate and so conceivable a further softening that Guy Kentish made bolder than before. He knew what he meant to do. He knew how he meant to do it. And yet it seemed just possible there might be a gentler way.

"You don't always take things, I believe?" he hazarded.

"You mean after sticking up?"

"Yes."

"Generally, I fear; it's the whole meaning of the act," confessed Stingaree, still the dandy in tone and phrase. "But there have been exceptions," he added.

"Exactly!" quoth Kentish. "And there's going to be another this afternoon!"

Stingaree hurled the stump of his cigar into the scrub and without a word the villain was born again, with his hard eyes, his harder mouth, his sinister scowl, his crag of a chin.

"So you come back to that?" he cried harshly. "I thought you had more sense. You will make me tie you up before your time."

"You may do exactly what you like," retorted Kentish, a galling scorn in his unctuous voice. "Only, before you do it, you may as well know who I am."

"My good sir, do you suppose I care who you are?" asked Stingaree, with an angry laugh—and his anger is the rarest thing in all his annals.

"I am quite sure you don't," responded Kentish. "But you may as well know my name, even though you never heard it before." And he gave it with a touch of triumph, not for one moment to be confounded with natural pride.

The bushranger stared him steadily in the eyes; his hand had dropped once more upon the butt of his revolver. "No, I never did hear it before," he said.

"I'm not surprised," replied the other. "I was a new member when you were turned out of the club." Stingaree's hand closed; his eyes were terrible. "And yet," continued Kentish, "the moment I saw you at close quarters in the road I recognized you as—"

"Stingaree!" cried the bushranger, on a rich and vibrant note. "Let the other name pass your lips—even here—and it's the last word that ever will!"

"Very well," said Mr. Kentish, with his unaffected shrug. "But you see, I know all about you."

"You're the only man who does in all Australia!" exclaimed the outlaw hoarsely.

"At present I shan't be the only man long."

"You will," said Stingaree, as he leaned over, revolver in hand. "You'll be the only man ever, because instead of tying you up I'm going to shoot you."

Kentish threw up his head in sharp contempt.

"What?" said he. "Slitting?"

Stingaree sprang to his feet in a fury. "No; I have a brace!" he cried, catching the pack horse. "You shall have the other, if it makes you happy, but you'll be a dead man all the same. I can handle these things, and I shall shoot to kill!"

"Then it's all up with you," said Kentish, rising slowly in his turn.

"All up with me? What the devil do you mean?"

"Unless I am at a certain place by a certain time, with or without these letters that are not yours, another letter will be opened."

Stingaree's stare gradually changed into a smile.

"A little vague," said he. "don't you think?"

"It shall be as plain as you please. The letter I mean was scribbled on the coach before I got down. It will only be opened if I don't return. It contains the name you can't bear to hear!"

There was a pause. The afternoon sun was sinking with southern precipitancy, and Kentish had got his back to it to cool intent. He studied the play of suppressed mortification and strenuous philosophy in the swarthy face warmed by the reddening light and admired the arduous triumph of judgment over instinct, even as a certain admiration dawned through the monocle which insensibly focused his attention.

"And suppose," said Stingaree—"suppose you return empty as you came?"

"Don't shoot!" he cried. "I'm the passenger you put down this afternoon."

"And the driver nearly tumbled from his perch."

"What about my mail bags?" he recovered himself enough to ask, for it was perfectly plain that the pretentiously intrepid passenger had been skulking all day in the scrub, scared by the terrors of the road.

"They're in that clump," replied Mr. Kentish. "And you can get them yourself or send some one else for them, for I've carried them far enough."

"That be blown for a yarn!" cried the driver, forgetting his benefits in the virtuous indignation of the moment.

"I don't wonder at your thinking it one," returned the other mildly, "for I never had such absolute luck in all my life."

And he went on to amplify his first lie like a man.

Meanwhile a great crowd gathered about Kentish. He seemed like a man from another world. There were so many questions hurled at him that at first he refused point blank to answer any of them. There was a movement on the part of the crowd to carry him on their shoulders, which he quickly checked. He actually had to fight his way through the crowd. The crowd, finally noting his evident embarrassment, fell back.

But when the bags were really back in the coach, piled roof high on those of the downward mail, then it was worse fun for Guy Kentish outside than even he had anticipated.

Question followed question, compliment capped compliment, and a certain unsteady undertone of incredulity by no means lessened his embarrassment.

Had he but told the truth he felt he could have borne the praise, and indeed enjoyed it, for he had done far better than anybody was likely to suppose, and already it was irritating to have to keep that circumstance a secret. Yet one thing he was able to say from his soul before the coach drew up at the next stage.

"You should have a spell here," the driver had suggested, "and let me pick you up again on my way back. You'd soon lay hands on the bird himself, if you can put salt on his tail as you've done. And no one else can. We want a few more chums like you."

"I dare say!"

And the new chum's tone bore its own significance.

"You don't mean," cried the driver, "to go and tell me you'll hurry home after this?"

"Only by the first steamer!" said Guy Kentish.

And he kept that word as well.

(The End.)

This episode of "Stingaree" will be shown at the Washington Theater in the near future. Watch for date.

FOR TIRED SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Boys and girls who have been bending over their desks for weeks and months, and often studying at home late into the night, get into a weak, nervous, run-down condition, and wise mothers will take the advice of our local druggist, Pecor Drug Company, and give such children Vinol, because it is a non-secret preparation which contains the three oldest tonics known, and is guaranteed to strengthen and restore health to weak, over-worked, run-down people, and to cure chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis, or you can get your money back.

"You can't carry them," said he when none remained outside. "I'll take them for you and dump them on the track."

"I have to pass the time till midnight. I can manage them in two journeys."

"You may do exactly what you like,"

But Stingaree insisted, and presently stood ready to mount his mare.

GERMAN SURGEONS CAN ALMOST REBUILD MAN.

Berlin, February 22.—At the convention of the German Orthopedic Society, which is now in session here, many inventions for repairing the wastes of war have been exhibited or discussed.

Dr. Ferdinand Sauerbruch, professor of surgery at Zurich University, showed the delegates an artificial hand which was able to grasp objects of all forms and to lift weights up to twenty-two pounds. An entirely novel feature of the hand is that it and the fingers are controlled by muscular action in the upper arm, which is prepared for such work by two operations.

Dr. Karl Ludluff, professor of surgery at Breslau University, described a method for uniting several nerves and reviving the muscular action of nerveless limbs. Professor Ludluff said he restores the connection by a piece of artery of an ox filled with gelatine, through which nerves rapidly grow, even bridging gaps of several inches.

Professor Hoerstermann of Koenigsburg University, described a method for treating joints left stiff after wounds have healed through the use of hot air, massage and mechanical appliances.

FRAUD IN ASPIRIN.

Columbus, O., February 21.—Federal authorities today by order of Federal Judge Sater destroyed more than 200 bottles containing 1,000 or more grains of fraudulent aspirin tablets which were being sold at a local drug store. The same quantity of genuine aspirin is valued at about $4,000. Before the European war the drug for the most part came from Germany.

SUBMARINE CAUSES PANIC.

London, February 21.—An entente allies submarine passed through the Dardanelles Tuesday last, reached the Bosphorus and torpedoed one tug and six transports loaded with munitions, according to an Athens dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company. The presence of the hostile submarine caused a panic at Constantinople.

Ambassadors To Belligerents Instructed To Bring to a Head Disputes With the United States.

Washington, February 21.—The United States today took steps to bring to a head all outstanding negotiations with the European belligerents. Ambassador Page at London was instructed to ask immediate replies to the protests against allied interference with American mails and to press for modification of the British "trading with the enemy" decree.

At the same time he will present supplementary protests in which, so far as the mail situation is concerned, this government will deny the British contention that neutral vessels entering British ports are subject to British port regulations.

This action was taken "to clear the diplomatic decks," so far as this government was concerned, so that it can have a free hand in the disposition of the Teutonic submarine negotiations.

Officials consider that under the new submarine "declaration of war" by Germany and her allies another grave situation is presented and it is hoped that matters affecting the entente powers can be gotten out of the way before action on the submarine situation is forced.

Secretary Lansing also took occasion today to deny that he planned to reprimand Ambassador von Bernstorff for making public what transpires at conference he has with the Secretary. The latter said that he had no intention of taking the question up with the ambassador.

Ambassador Penfield at Vienna called today he had presented the American note asking for investigation and explanation of the attack on the American tanker Petroleo near Alexandria, several weeks ago, and had been promised a prompt reply. It was said at the State Department the reply probably will give basis for further negotiations.

FIRE TO CAUSE DELAY IN CURRY PRINTING.

Washington, February 21.—Fire in the laundry at the Government Bureau of Printing and Engraving, accompanied by explosions threw many hundreds of employees into a panic and spread reports of a bomb plot.

A machine which washes and dries 30,000 wiping cloths a day was put out of commission by the fire.

As a result the plates will have to be dried by a long laborious process which may necessitate running the bureau twenty-four hours a day to keep up with the demand for currency and stamps.

TOBACCO CROPS MARKETED.

The Mt. Sterling houses report about 7,000,000 pounds of tobacco sold over their floors at an average of about 10 cents; and that from 15 to 20 per cent of the tobacco tributary to them is still out. Bourbon county reports about 80 per cent of her crop sold at prices that will average about 10 cents.

WHY WOMEN WRITE LETTERS

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing, genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and suffering.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

It is impossible for any woman who is well and who has never suffered to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

POPULAR RAILROAD MAN PROPOSED.

Mr. Jesse Traylor of Paris, one of the L. & N. railroad company's popular engineers, has been promoted to the position of traveling engineer on the Kentucky division of the L. & N., with headquarters at Corbin. Mr. Traylor has been employed by the L. & N. for the last fifteen years and is one of the best known locomotive engineers on the division. He assumed his new duties Tuesday.

ZEPPELIN CAPTURED.

Paris, February 21.—A Zeppelin was brought down by French guns in the vicinity of Brabant-Le-Roi, in the Meuse today, according to an official announcement made this evening. The Zeppelin was flying from St. Menehould toward the south and was attacked by cannon from Revigny. Hit by an incendiary shell, the Zeppelin fell in flames in the vicinity of Brant-Le-Roi.

FOUR KILLED IN AIR RAID.

Rome, February 21.—In raids over the province of Brescia and toward Milan, Austrian aeroplanes today killed four persons and wounded five. Only slight material damage was done. Two persons were killed at Desenzano; one wounded at Salo, and two killed and four wounded at Trezzo Sull'Adda.

"SAFETY FIRST"

The Maysville Street Railway and Transfer Company Issues Instructional Blotters.

On Monday the Maysville Street Railway & Transfer Company was busy passing from house to house a number of blotters with their imprint upon same and a set of "Safety First" rules.

The blotter is nicely gotten up and shows the picture of a conductor standing on the rear platform of a street car and with his left hand is pointing to a sign on the side of the car bearing the following inscription:

"The Railway Company is doing its best to absolutely prevent accidents on its lines. Will you help us in the name of public safety? Let us cooperate."

Reading the sign is a large number of people who are patrons of the street car company.

On the same side of the blotter are the following rules:

WARRIORS AGAINST ACCIDENTS.

1. Don't get off until the car stops still.

2. Don't jump on a car while moving at speed.

3. Don't get off facing the rear of a car.

4. Don't cross the track behind the car from which you have just alighted without first seeing that no car or other vehicle is coming from the other direction.

5. Don't put your head or arms out of the window.

6. Don't ride on the steps of the car.

7. Don't pull the bell rope.

8. Don't drive out of a cross street onto the tracks without first seeing that the way is clear.

9. Don't allow your children to run and play on the streets.

10. Don't allow your boys to steal rides on the cars.

Study these don'ts and keep on the safe side.

This is a splendid move upon the part of the street car company and deserves the co-operation of every citizen in Maysville.

Let us co-operate and have "Safety First."

BRIEF RESUME AND FORECAST OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S WORK.

Frankfort, February 21.—The last fifteen days of the present session of the General Assembly are expected to see the bulk of the legislation disposed of. Five Democratic measures have been passed and others will be taken up this week.

The first bill to be considered will be Senator Robertson's measure to amend the child labor law so as to permit non-resident children appear on the stage in Kentucky. This proposed amendment is expected to cause a lively debate.

The workers' compensation act, considered one of the most important measures before the Assembly, will also be taken up. It was introduced by Senator Knight and friends of the measure declare it will pass.

Senator Glenn's bill to recodify the insurance laws will come up for passage Thursday and a big fight is expected.

A heated debate is anticipated when the bill of Representative White to allow the state superintendent of public instruction additional help in his office comes up Wednesday. Senator Lewis has a bill providing for devotional exercises in the public schools.

ASQUITH ASKS COMMONS TO VOTE CREDIT OF $2,100,000,000 TO CONTINUE FIGHT.

London, February 21.—Premier Asquith in the House of Commons today moved a vote of credit for $21,000,000,000 with which to carry on the war.

The credit is in two parts, the main sum being $1,500,000,000 and the residue, $600,000,000, a supplementary credit.

This is the biggest vote of credit ever moved in the history of the House of Commons.

The money thus secured will carry on operations until the end of May. From April, 1915, to February 19, 1916, the British government spent $4,174,000,000 for ammunition and guns for the army and navy.

It is costing approximately $15,000,000 daily to furnish army and navy munitions.

"AID THE KIDNEYS"

Maysville Sufferers Should Take No Further Risk.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, lagor—why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a tested remedy is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in kidney trouble over 50 years, have been tested in thousands of cases.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, act now, for gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease may set in and make neglect dangerous. Can Maysville residents demand more convincing proof than the following:

A. Sorries, locksmith, Auerdeen, O., says: "The action of my kidneys was irregular and the kidney secretions contained sediment. I had backache and when stooping, it was hard for me to straighten. Colds always settled on my kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they stopped the trouble and my kidneys became strong."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Sorries had. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

"THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE"

Stupendous Vitagraph Production Begins Two-Day Run At the Washington Theatre

The great motion picture drama, "The Battle Cry of Peace," by J. Stuart Blackton, and produced by the Vitagraph Motion Picture Company, begins a two-day run at the Washington theater today.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" deals with the subject which is today nearest the heart of every American citizen—the problem of America's unpreparedness.

It portrays the defenseless condition of our country; the consequences to which this condition may lead; and the way to avoid these consequences. The city of New York is attacked by a powerful foreign foe. You are an eye-witness. You see the enemy approaching, the powerlessness of the city, the inadequacy of its forts and defenses. You see the havoc wrought by the enemy's cruisers, its submarines, its airships—by its shells, shrapnel, bombs. You see the most beautiful sky-line in the world in flames; the metropolis of the western hemisphere devastated.

You see New York fall into the hands of the enemy; and the desecration that follows.

Then you are shown the way that such a calamity can be avoided—the one way. You are shown the way to peace—the peace for which America so earnestly prays—the peace with honor.

Acknowledgement is made to Hudson Maxim, international authority on arms and ammunition, for facts contained in his "Defenseless America," and to a score of prominent Americans in army, navy and administrative circles for co-operation and advice. Among its sponsors are the foremost names in current American history. Personages of national and international importance appear personally in the production.

A matinee will be given both days, beginning at 2 o'clock. Evening shows at 7 and 9 o'clock. Reserved seats are now on sale at Crane & Shafer's for the first evening show. Seats are not reserved for matinee and last show at night. Prices are 25, 35 and 50 cents, which will prevail at all shows. No extra charge for reserved seats.

MARRIED AT WEST UNION.

Mr. Russell Jefferson and Miss Rosa Carpenter, both of the Mayslick neighborhood, were married at West Union, O., Tuesday.

John Shedd of Alhambra, J. A. Denton of Hillsboro, Squire W. H. Moore of South Ripley, and C. A. Glasgow and S. P. Owens of Flemingsburg, were selling tobacco crops on the Mayfield market Tuesday.

Jane R. Brown, 8-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. James R. K. Brown of Eastland, died at the home of its parents at an early hour Tuesday morning. Funeral arrangement will be announced later.

Col. Ben La Bree is spending a couple of weeks at his home on Forest avenue. He will make an extended trip in the mountains of Virginia and will return home again about March 10.

The apron and candy sale held Tuesday by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church at J. W. Elgin's insurance office attracted a large crowd. The ladies report satisfactory receipts.

Miss Whittington, who is employed at Mrs. Thomas' boarding house on Bridge street, was operated upon at Hayswood Hospital Tuesday, and is reported as resting easily this morning.

Mrs. John Murray and her daughter, Miss Bonita Fitzgerald of East Second street, leave today for Lexington where they will be guests of friends and relatives.

The many friends of Miss Mary Clark of Front street, will be glad to learn that she is rapidly recovering from a recent fall.

Miss Mabel Crowell, who is a patient at Hayswood Hospital, is reported as slightly improved this morning.

THE SQUARE DEAL MAN'S DRAWING.

The drawing to see what number drew the fine Maxwell touring car occurred at the store of Mike Brown, the Square Deal Man, yesterday afternoon, and ticket No. 38,101 proved to be the lucky one. Any one having this ticket can present same to Mr. Brown and secure the automobile.

The judges were Mrs. O. L. Palmer, Nepton; Mr. Dempsey Cooper, Sardis; Mrs. Taylor Newdigate, Mt. Carmel; Mr. O. G. Callahan, Helena; Mr. W. Fred Thomas, Maysville; Mr. Fred Wolfe, Minerva; Mr. Earl Newell, Marion county; Mr. Walter Knight, Orangefield; Mr. J. C. Everett, Maysville, and Mr. James Purdon of the Independent.

MASKED BALL.

The gentlemen's return dance to the ladies' Leap Year dance of January will be given Friday night, February 25, at Neptune Hall, with Messrs. Calvert Early and Dudley Quaintance as committee. The past experiences of these gentlemen have not been wasted in vain and through this they have no equal as a dance committee. The music will be furnished by Goodwin's Saxophone Trio of Lexington, and Beck & Company of Cincinnati, will be at the Whitehall Friday at the service of those who desire costumes.

OLD RESIDENT ILL.

Mr. Kinney McElanahan was overcome while attending the funeral services of Mrs. Boulden at the First M. E. church, South, Tuesday morning, and his condition for a time was considered very serious. Prompt medical attention, however, was rendered, and his condition is reported as somewhat improved this morning.

The fourth annual convention of the General Agencies of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company is now in session at the Phoenix Hotel, Lexington. A number of prominent men connected with this splendid company, are on the program for addresses, Mr. J. W. Elgin of this city, being of the number. The convention will close with a banquet at the Phoenix.

Social At Baptist Church.

The Baptist church Tuesday night gave a luncheon and program full of good things both for the inner and mental man. The speeches were above the average and it would be hard to select the best. The luncheon was all that could be desired and those present concluded the Baptist church is made up of a bunch of lives wires.

Old Country Club Dance.

The Old Country Club had an old-time dance at St. John's Hall Tuesday night in honor of George Washington. Some fifty couples enjoyed themselves in dancing the good old-fashioned dances. The Old Country Club always have good times and enjoyment for their members.

George Washington Tea.

The George Washington tea held at the home of the Misses Lee on Market street Tuesday night by the ladies of the Central Presbyterian church, was a very enjoyable affair.

When Sunday mornin' come around
My Pa hung up his strap
An' took his razor out an' made
It go c'flop! c'flop!
An' then he got his mug an' brush,
An' yelled to me, "Behave!"
I tell you, things was mighty still—
When Pa began to shave.

Then Pa he'd stir his brush around,
An' make the soapsuds fly;
An' sometimes when he stirred too hard
He got some in his eye.

I tell you, it was funny then
To see Pa stamp and rave;

But they never ketched me laffin'—

BIDDING TO BE SPIRITED.

From the present outlook, bidding on the streets to be built this year will be quite spirited, quite a few contractors from out of town were looking over the ground Tuesday, preparatory to filing proposals to do the work. With the officials, bankers and the people generally acting in accord in this matter, it does seem that the proposition would appear much more attractive to those engaged in street construction.
